SNOHOMISH POLICE DEPARTMENT

ANNUAL REPORT TO THE COMMUNITY

Message from the Chief

The old Chinese curse -May you live in interesting times- has certainly been visited on many of us this past year, but the adventure known as “The Year 2020” has ended and we all look forward to a new year with far less turmoil, drama and uncertainty. Without a doubt, these have been interesting, and challenging, times.

I have had to remind myself many times recently that the word challenge is just another way to say opportunity. We have all learned to be flexible and adapt to rapidly changing circumstances. The people of Snohomish have done so better than almost anywhere else and I know that we will continue to do so as we face unseen challenges and changes ahead of us.

Speaking of change, policing has changed significantly during my career, as it should. Policing should reflect society’s values and beliefs and, as society’s values and beliefs change, so should policing. Policing is not an easy profession, nor is it perfect. None of us are perfect, yet imperfection is not easily forgiven in law enforcement. Paraphrasing Vince Lombardi - We must always try to achieve perfection, even though we will fail. But in that effort, we will achieve excellence – and this is my goal for the Snohomish Police Department as we move forward together.

However, it is also very important to remember that policing in a democratic society is one of the toughest jobs in this country. Conflict is inherent in a democratic system that bestows authority to one group and then, rightly, challenges that authority. This is necessary. Therefore, the police-community relationship must be strengthened and defined by our own local narrative and not by the national narrative. If we don’t work hard to define our own local narratives then the default is the national narrative – and that is not an accurate narrative of policing in our city, nor is it an acceptable one.

As your Police Chief I want to assure you that the men and women of the Snohomish Police Department will continue to provide the highest level of service to our community, every day and night, and do so with the professionalism you should expect of us. That is the foundation on which everything police do rests upon. We pledge to be open and caring about the needs and desires of our community, and to work cooperatively with you without bias.

I close by once again thanking those who provided me with this fantastic opportunity to serve as your Police Chief. I look forward to continuing to serve and unite our community.

My best wishes to all of you,
Robert D. Palmer
Chief of Police

COMMUNITY CONNECTION

The Snohomish Police Department is very proud of our strong police/community partnership. This partnership is sustained and strengthened through our many community programs, events & outreach, such as:

Coffee With A Cop

Several times per year, the Police Chief and Snohomish PD officers host “Coffee with a Cop” in a local restaurant or café. This is an unscripted, casual opportunity for our community members to connect with officers over a cup of coffee and some conversation. Watch our Facebook page and website for upcoming "Coffee with a Cop" events.

National Night Out

Normally each summer, on the first Tuesday in August, the Snohomish PD joins a huge national anti-crime community event called "National Night Out," which draws Snohomish residents downtown for food, fun, live music, and elsewhere in the city for family-friendly block parties. Unfortunately, our 2020 events had to be cancelled due to the pandemic restrictions and to ensure we were not unintentionally helping to fuel the spread of the COVID-19 virus.

For over 35 years, NNO has been America's annual Night Out Against Crime. It is a unique crime/drug prevention event sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch.

While we were truly disappointed that we could not spend that Tuesday evening meeting with neighbors and communities to partner against crime, we expect that in 2021 we will be able to do so and join 38 million people in more than 16,000 communities across America doing the exact same thing.

Shop with A Cop

Over the past several years the officers of the Snohomish Police Department have partnered with deputies from the Sheriff's Office, Fred Meyer at Snohomish Station, and the Boys and Girls Club to provide a Christmas shopping opportunity for kids in need.

Donations from the Deputy Sheriff's Association and local community members have given us the ability to take kids in need Christmas shopping at Fred Meyer, where they can buy gifts for themselves or for family members when they otherwise wouldn't have the money to do so. Each child is identified by the Boys and Girls Club and provided a $100.00 gift card to use during the event – they can buy whatever they want.

The partnership with Fred Meyer is amazing and they generously donate coupon savings to the purchases, allowing the money to stretch even further. Santa Claus usually makes an appearance and cookies and snacks for the kids to enjoy are also donated.

2020's event was modified due to COVID concerns, and the face-to-face shopping with an officer or deputy was cancelled. Instead, we presented the Boys and Girls Club the gift cards to distribute to the children so that they could shop with their families in a safe way. A ceremonial check for $1200.00 was presented to Program Director Emma Titterness by Community Outreach Officer Rich Niebusch, who helped coordinate this year's event, along with Chief Rob Palmer and Mayor John Kartak.

SIGNIFICANT EVENTS

COVID-19

In January of 2020, the first confirmed case of COVID-19 in the U.S. was identified in Snohomish County. By mid-March, numerous cases had been identified in Washington State, in other parts of the nation, and in numerous other countries around the world prompting the World Health Organization to identify it as a pandemic. Washington was placed in a virtual shut-down and under a stay at home order.

Numerous businesses and all schools in Snohomish were shuttered, or significantly curtailed in their operation; our normal lives were dramatically altered.

As the year progressed, we saw other changes to our accustomed routines and normalcy. Mask wearing and “social-distancing” became a part of the new fabric of daily life. Working and educating from home became commonplace, and for many of us the changes will last far beyond the pandemic. The impacts to many of our community members were severe, not just economically, but included the loss of friends or loved ones to the disease.

Policing in Snohomish also had to adapt. While we still needed to provide full-service patrolling and response, we needed to do it differently. With the requirement to protect both the officers and the public from inadvertent transmission of the disease, we had to find innovative ways to conduct our investigations and interact with the public. Apart from the use of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) and the heavy use of sanitizing agents, we necessarily curtailed proactive contacts and meeting with victims or witnesses directly, whenever possible. The use of electronic technology to obtain statements, interview people and communicate became commonplace, whenever there not a need to have personal contact.

We will continue to work safely until the pandemic has been fully abated but strive to remain accessible and proactive in patrolling and policing Snohomish.

Civil Protests

On May 25th, 2020, George Floyd died by police action during his arrest in Minneapolis, Minnesota. This sparked outrage and protests across the nation, including the Puget Sound region, over justice inequalities and systemic racism in our society. Snohomish students and residents began holding peaceful vigils along streets in the historic district, to demonstrate their solidarity with others around the country who were calling to bring reforms to policing and end systemic racism in America. In other local areas, particularly Seattle and Bellevue, many of the protests became highly confrontational and riotous.

On Sunday May 31st, a social media report that agitators and demonstrators were going to arrive in Snohomish was forwarded to Police. The Snohomish Police Department, along with the Sheriff's Office and other Snohomish County police agencies began preparations and opened an Emergency Operations Center at the Fire District 4 Headquarters to develop response plans, but the protest itself never materialized and was later determined to have been a hoax.

The information about this protest spread rapidly over social media and prompted an armed response by numerous local citizens to the city, where they gathered on First Street, under the premise they would provide security for the businesses in that area. There were some minor verbal clashes between the armed citizens and local citizen protesters, but no reports of violence or assault. As the day continued, the mood became tense and many residents and citizens felt intimidated by this show of force from other members of the community. By nightfall the event had taken on the character of an out-of-control block party, with some local bars selling alcohol to patrons in violation of state COVID restrictions in place at the time. There were some overt displays of flags and apparel that conveyed a racial undertone to the incident, and which created unnecessary additional tension between the armed responders, protesters, as well as area residents.

The SPD and members of the Sheriff's Office responded to the area and began shutting the incident down. One driver was arrested for Reckless Driving after doing a "burnout" and nearly striking some bystanders.

The following evening, June 1st, protesters and citizens again came to First Street in large numbers, but with far less open display of weapons but more racial symbology. Differing from the previous night, one confrontation did turn violent. A 19-year-old man got into a confrontation with another man on First Street and was punched and knocked to the ground, suffering minor injuries. This was not initially reported to the police department, but once made aware of it, we conducted a thorough investigation, identifying all the participants, and referred charges to the Snohomish County Prosecutor's Office once the investigation was completed.

By Tuesday, June 2nd, the events of Sunday night had been widely reported in the local media, with some national news outlets also reporting on it. This coverage spurred a large number of protesters to come to Snohomish from Seattle and elsewhere from around the Puget Sound region. While they initially planned only to gather at the intersection of Second Street and Avenue D, where local residents and students had been gathering for several evenings, the protest group eventually began marching south on Avenue D and turned onto First Street. The group's size was estimated at between 250-300 people.

We made the decision to facilitate this impromptu march, rather than attempt to stop it, which would have been futile and likely sparked further outrage against police and possibly violence. With assistance from a Sheriff's Office team, we used police vehicles to block side streets and roadways while the march progressed initially up First Street, then along Union Avenue and back along Second Street to Avenue D. This was done to prevent traffic and drivers from interacting with the march and to provide a safe environment for both the protesters and motorists. We used a leap-frog tactic that always kept our vehicles in a position to stop or divert traffic well ahead of the march, who made their circuit three times before quietly dispersing as darkness arrived.

There were no incidents of violence, vandalism, or car/pedestrian encounters and we continued to use this tactic over the next several weeks as additional protests and marches occurred along First Street.

The events that occurred through May 31st and June 2nd were unprecedented in Snohomish and have left lasting impacts on our community. While no property damage occurred, as it did in many other cities and towns, and violence was minimal, the incidents have created fear that continues to resonate with many in our community. Our sense of security has been shaken and racial tensions have been brought out into the open. It is hoped that this fear will dissipate as time goes on, and that the opening of a franker dialogue about race and inequality will lead to real and necessary changes for the better.

STATISTICAL INFORMATION

MOTOR VEHICLE CRASHES / CITATIONS

The following two tables detail vehicle collisions and traffic enforcement.

Accident Type	2018	2019	2020
No Injury	130	114	97
Possible Injury	28	38	25
Non-Incapacitating Injury	3	7	7
Incapacitating Injury	6	2	1
Unknown	41	44	19
Totals	208	205	149

Citation Type	2018	2019	2020
Parking	204	220	48
Infraction – Traffic	719	560	449
Criminal – Traffic	4	0	0
Totals	932	787	498

For 2020, the data shows an approximate 30% drop in collisions and an approximate 35% drop in infraction totals from 2019 – this is predominantly a result of the reduction in vehicle traffic due to COVID-19 restrictions and fewer commuters travelling to and from work. The reduction in infractions is also a result of social distancing mandates given to the officers to restrict unnecessary public contacts.

The data also shows an approximate 15% drop in infractions from 2018 to 2019. This is an area in which the Snohomish Police Department will be refocused to promote public and driver safety.

DUI Enforcement is, and always will be, a priority!

DUI	2018	2019	2020

CRIME IN SNOHOMISH

Non-Violent Crimes

Crime Type	2018	2019	2020
Residential Burglary	18	26	22
Commercial Burglary	23	33	48
Vehicle Theft	32	14	34
Vehicle Prowl	53	43	71
Theft (All Types)	176	193	238

2020 did see a general increase in certain non-violent crimes, particularly Commercial Burglaries and Vehicle Prowls. Analyzing the reports and data will be a priority for our Investigations Unit to determine if there are particular businesses being targeted and what preventative measures could be used to bring about reductions in these crime types.

Violent Crimes

Robbery	2018	2019	2020
Robbery 1 (Armed)	1	3	6
Robbery 2 (Unarmed)	3	3	6

As with some non-violent crimes, we have seen a statistically significant increase in Robberies, even though the actual number is still very low. It should be pointed out that “Armed” Robbery includes the use or threatened use of any kind of weapon, or a significant assault during the taking of property from the person of another; not just firearms. The actual use, or implied use, of a firearm in the 2020 Robbery 1° cases was two, but in neither instance was a firearm actually displayed.

Assaults	2018	2019	2020
Felony Assault 1, 2, 3	9	9	8
Felony Assault 1,2,3 DV	5	4	5
Misdemeanor Assault 4	23	18	12
Misdemeanor Assault 4 DV	61	43	43

Assault totals for the City of Snohomish remain generally consistent or show a declining trend. There is little that police can do as a preventative, except to continue with education and outreach whenever possible.

Crime Type	2018	2019	2020
Arson	0	0	4
Rape	1	0	2
Homicide	0	0	0

Snohomish saw a significant Arson increase due to several vandalism fires at city parks in 2020. Investigations into those fires are open and active.

Both Rape cases reported in 2020 fall under the unofficial heading of “Date Rape”. There were no reported stranger-suspect sexual assaults.

There were no Homicides or Attempted Homicides in Snohomish during 2020.

ANNUAL ARREST DEMOGRAPHIC ANALYSIS

Data capture on demographics is a new tool available to us through analytical software used by the Sheriff’s Office Crime Analysts based on police reports and how those arrested identified themselves by race.

The graphic above is included this year as a representation of arrests by the Snohomish PD and how they relate to our populations of color. The arrest percentages by identified race are closely in line with the actual population demographics of Snohomish County and/or the City of Snohomish (datausa.io), demonstrating equity in the application of arrest as an enforcement option.

Crisis Calls

Crisis Aid Calls	2018	2019	2020
Mental Health	11	8	44
Suicide or Attempt	3	2	2

Crisis Calls also include contacts for homelessness and addiction outreach. With the return of the Community Outreach Officer, those contacts did increase for 2020.

It is impossible to fully account for these types of contacts because they may be dispatched or coded as another call type (such as a trespassing or nuisance call) and change during the contact into an outreach call. That may or may not be changed to a mental aid contact depending on the outcome. It is probable that this call type is under-reported.

There are a variety of factors that affect prosecution outcomes, including plea negotiations and agreements as well as victim and witness cooperation, particularly in the Closed category. Courtroom closures and other restrictions during the pandemic dramatically affected prosecutions in 2020.

We will continue to monitor the ratio of our arrests and referrals to actual case acceptance and prosecution to ensure that our efforts in holding violators accountable is high, and fiscally responsible.

Jail and prosecution costs must merit the expenditure of enforcement and investigation time and effort. Snohomish is fortunate that we have the staffing, time, and resources to fully and thoroughly investigate crimes and send the Prosecutor's Office high quality and complete cases for review. This should result in higher acceptance rates and more successful prosecutions. We seek to perform the highest quality investigations and prioritize training, not just for our detectives, but for the patrol staff as well to help ensure that is the result.
